

Shifting Tides of the Knowledge of Christ

Corinthians Chapter 7 verse 4

The wife hath not power over her own body,
but the husband:
and likewise also the husband hath no power of his own body,
but the wife.

REMEMBER THIS SIMPLE EQUATION:

IF Christ is in you and your body is His temple, then whatever you do to the body, don't you also do unto Christ who's Spirit dwell within you? Then listen to this all you husbands and wives:

Since you own not your own body but the others, why is it that you treat Christ with such utter cruelty and contempt in the way you respond to your spouse? Is this the thanks that you give Christ for the gift He has given unto you?

Can you not hear His commandment to treat others as more important than yourselves and are you not mature enough to understand that when you see the other as Christ, your love for Him invokes each others love from the actions you commit to Him?

How much more should we see the other members of His body and give to them the same treatment, love, and response that we would give to Christ?

Does not Christ dwell in all who profess the acceptance of His Gift? How much more then, would the world see know Him when they see us? Does He not say that we are to walk in His likeness, even when no one else will follow?

So, open your eyes and see how Christ, and one walking together, can draw a complete nation to Him. Put away those selfish things, the plans you make to impress God of your righteousness and give Him control over what you will do, who you will see, and what you will have.

Do you not believe Him when He tells you, "I know what you have need of"? Then free yourselves from the bondage of slavery to the things that you have put your time into, the things of this world as the non-believer does. Show this world how to really live for Christ, the one who died for them.

He promises peace and freedom for all those allowing Him to direct their path.

In the Authority of the Son of God

Amen.
